

JAPANESE INVASION COLUMN PRESSES FORWARD IN INDIAN TERRITORY DESPITE HEAVY CASUALTIES INFLICTED BY ALLIES

Allied Fighters May Soon Come Under New Pressure From Still Another Enemy Spearhead, It Is Announced — Allies Score Important Advances in Other Sectors, However.

By James E. Brown (U. S. Staff Correspondent) NEW DELHI, Mar. 29—A tank-led Japanese invasion column pressed forward along Indian territory today despite heavy casualties inflicted by stubbornly resisting allied troops who, an allied communique hinted, soon may come under new pressure from still another enemy spearhead.

In other sectors, however, the allies scored important advances while in fierce aerial duels at least 24 enemy planes were shot down. Lord Louis Mountbatten, supreme United Nations commander in this theater, announced.

Reuters news agency reported that the Japanese lost 43 planes Monday and Tuesday in "a determined effort to disrupt allied air supremacy in Burma." Of these, 39 were definitely destroyed, six were listed as probables and seven others as damaged.

The fourth enemy column to enter India, threatening both Kohima and Imphal, continued to exert grueling pressure against the allies, the official statement admitted. Pressing through the dense Sittoung country, the Japanese suffered heavy casualties but succeeded in compelling the allies to fall back upon new positions.

In addition, the communique announced that a fresh enemy movement has been observed in the hilly country 50 miles east of the big supply base at Imphal, which had been under threat of a three-pronged pincer movement until grimly resisting allied jungle fighters blunted the heads of the enemy columns. Other small parties of Japanese were revealed to be attempting to cut a path into Manipur north of the Chin Hills strip.

Along the vital highway linking those mountains with Tiddim, "further successful operations" were reported. Much valuable material was captured and the enemy suffered considerable casualties. Other allied forces maintained their hold on the Tammupai area on the lower reaches of the road, but an enemy block against the highway "still is to be cleared."

Rapidly-advancing Chinese troops were revealed to be attacking enemy positions from three sides of a hill south of Hkwanlaw and continuing their drive south of a stream which they forded yesterday.

The main Japanese invasion column was opposed by infantrymen, backed by mortar batteries and heavy machine-guns as it pushed along toward the flat Manipur plain.

THE WAR AT A GLANCE

By International News Service Triumphant Russian armies hammered forward on all the Ukrainian fronts today, threatening the enemy strongholds of Cernauti and Odessa, and mauling for their all-out drive into the heart of the Balkans.

The third Ukrainian army of Gen. Rodion Y. Malinovsky, capitalizing on its victory in capturing the key Black Sea port of Nikolayev, hurled two powerful columns in the direction of Odessa at the mouth of the Dniester River. Nikolayev, site of an important naval base and vital ship-building facilities, fell before the Soviet Army which smashed powerfully-prepared German defenses and ousted the Nazi garrison in furious street fighting.

TANKS CLEAR "JAPS" FROM ISLAND ATOLL

Pave the Way for Infantry Blasting Enemy Day and Night in Marshalls

USED 2 SIZES OF TANKS

By Howard Handelman (U. S. Staff Correspondent) PARRY ISLAND, Eniwetok Atoll, the Marshalls, Mar. 28 (Delayed)—(INS)—The tired men in the oily fatigues and with sand and grime ground into their faces leaned against a medium tank, ready to call this Eniwetok campaign quits.

They had taken a beating for five days, pushing their tanks ahead of the infantry every day and staying up every night to whip their mobile fortresses into shape for another day of fighting.

The Marines ran medium tanks and the Army worked light tanks. Together they worked over the three main islands, on the atoll, Engebi, Eniwetok and Parry.

Every tankman experienced the routine that Sgt. George Hornberger, 24, of Deerfield, Ill., went through with his men. Hornberger, who drove a tank in Deerfield, went ashore at Engebi at the beginning of the invasion with the rest of the tanks.

All day the tanks fought, roving the island to send great shells into Jap bunkers and tunnels, paving the way for the Marines who followed afoot.

Engebi was secured in six hours and the tanks were moved out for the next day's attack on Eniwetok. Continued on Page Four

In the total of $3,120 reported there was one large donation of $2,500 from the Wilson Distilling Co.

Dr. Henry A. Vansant, Speaks To Rotarians

ANDALUSIA, Mar. 29—Bensalem Rotary Club was addressed last evening by one of the club members, Dr. Henry A. Vansant, veterinarian, who discussed the history of veterinary medicine as a contribution to human as well as animal welfare.

It is known there were veterinarians before the time of Christ, but Dr. Vansant said the first mention by name in written documents was dated 300 A. D. The first two books on veterinary medicine were written in the 10th century. One dealt primarily with horses, while the other considered other domestic animals.

Dr. Vansant enumerated a long list of medical discoveries based on the findings of veterinarians, one of which indirectly made completion of the Panama Canal possible.

Vice president Jacob Scheufele presided, and a guest at the dinner meeting in King Hall was Charles H. Boehm, of Morrisville.

OPA SURVEY AIMS TO CHECK RENT INCREASES

Aid of Plants, Schools and Neighborhood Organizations To Be Solicited

FIRST SINCE MARCH, '42

There is to be another checking of rent scales in Bucks county, according to William A. Randall, newly appointed director of the Philadelphia Defense Rental Area, which includes Bucks county.

The survey, first since rents were frozen at the March 1, 1942, level, will be made with the help of industrial plants, schools and neighborhood organizations.

The area takes in Philadelphia, Bucks, Montgomery, Chester and Delaware counties and includes about 400,000 house tenants with an additional 79,000 in rooming houses and hotels. Mr. Randall said.

Proprietors were required by law to certify their rents with OPA at the March 1 level. Tenants, through this survey, will furnish OPA with the current charges which will be compared with the certified rates.

"In this area, with a population of three millions, there are bound to be some unregistered properties and some landlords who are charging more than the maximum rate," Mr. Randall said.

The survey, he continued, is aimed at proprietors who have imposed "bonus charges" on the regular rent scales and landlords who have curtailed services since the rents were frozen.

OPA, he said, will demand a refund of all overcharges and if repayment is not made criminal charges will be preferred in Federal Court. Conviction carries a fine up to $5000 or imprisonment of one year, or both.

The tenant, Mr. Randall pointed out, may secure a judgment equal to three times the overcharge or $50 for each instance of overcharge.

The survey will be launched late this week and will take several weeks for completion.

Churchill to Seek Vote of Confidence

London—Prime Minister Winston Churchill, stung by his government's one-vote defeat on a domestic issue yesterday, announced to Commons today that he soon will seek a vote of confidence on the ground that the full support of the House is vital at "this serious" stage of the war. The veteran leader declined to draw a distinction between a strictly home-front matter and the conduct of the war, with the declaration that such a course is "impossible."

Consent of being opinion was that Churchill will receive an overwhelming majority on the confidence vote.

"At this serious time in the progress of the war, there must be no doubt of the support which the government enjoy from the house," Churchill declared.

Allied Troops Successfully Withdrawn

Naples—Allied troops, cut off for days on Monastery Hill and supplied by low flying aircraft, were revealed today to have been successfully withdrawn several nights ago from two positions on the holy-protected slope and to have rejoined the main Fifth Army force.

Their withdrawal was undertaken when it became apparent that it would take longer to clean up Cassino, where the Germans were stubbornly resisting the Allied advance. To continue to supply them from the air was considered an unwise—although successful—policy. Evacuation of the wounded presented another difficulty in influencing the decision to withdraw.

Blast Targets Inside Germany

London—U. S. bombers blasted targets inside central Germany today as other bombers simultaneously bombed military objectives in the Pas de Calais area of France.

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 29, 1944

REDSKIN RANGER

There are several names of colorful fighting men that haven't been in the news recently. One is Gen. George S. Patton, with his ivory-handled 45's. Another is Brigadier Wingate, Britain's modern Lawrence of out-of-the-way places. But the name missed most is that of Pvt. Samson Oneskunk of the United States Rangers.

Private Oneskunk, as might be gathered from his picturesque (or is it odoriferous?) cognomen, is a full-blooded American Indian, long, lean and taciturn. There was a story about him some months ago.

It seems that a group of British Commando officers were invited to watch a group of Rangers in training in England. An American officer was explaining forest concealment tactics. One of the British officers inquired why one of the Ranger privates seemed bored and uninterested. The American officer showed him. He summoned Private Oneskunk and gave him certain instructions.

Then to the amazement of the Britishers, Private Oneskunk disappeared practically before their eyes, reappearing silently from time to time to snatch rifles and swagger sticks at will—no matter how alertly the Britishers sought to detect his approach. The demonstration of Indian woods magic—and the reason for Private Oneskunk's enmity at the forest concealment lecture—were completely convincing.

Since then nothing further has been heard from Private Oneskunk. It stands to reason that a man of his capabilities is bound to distinguish himself. Maybe the Rangers are saving him for some thing particularly big. Perhaps he is destined to be known as the noiseless, unseen scourge of the Forest of Ardennes or the Schwarzwald. He has the talent—and the name.

ERRORS INTO VICTORIES

Recent brilliant successes in American amphibious operations in the Pacific have proved that lessons of past mistakes have been learned. Guadalcanal still is remembered with heartaches. Early thrusts through the Solomons were successful only because meager landing forces held on in spite of a lack of food and munitions.

While at first transports frequently were forced to flee with only a small part of their cargoes unloaded, a technique has now been perfected which enables the job to be completed in a matter of hours. Garrisoned ashore on recently captured islands do not lack supplies. It is to the improvement in American fighting tactics, dictated by experience, as much as to the availability of more and better supplies and equipment, that credit is due for victories in the Pacific.

Psychologists are trying to discover why man is grouchy in the morning and talkative at night. Perhaps he remembers in the morning some of the things he shouldn't have said the night before.

THE GREAT GAME

OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT

to the full in his present drive for delegates—and not always with complete fairness. For example, he knows that General MacArthur and Governor Stassen are both precluded from active campaigning by their army and navy positions. He knows, too, that Governor Dewey cannot accept his challenge to debate the issues or proclaim his candidacy without convicting himself of insincerity. After his election as Governor in 1942 Mr. Dewey declared he would not be a candidate for the Presidency. Probably, the best evidence of the sincerity of this statement was his repudiation a few weeks ago of the efforts of his friends in Wisconsin to make a candidate of him in the primaries. He coupled this with a request that the delegates committed to him withdraw. Admittedly, this greatly increased Mr. Wilkie's chance of carrying the State and decreased Mr. Dewey's. Yet, Mr. Wilkie in a series of speeches has managed to convey the impression that his rivals are all hiding in the bushes, afraid to come out in the open, unwilling to take their candidacies to the people.

NONE of the men thus criticized is in position to reply to this sort of attack. General MacArthur and Governor Stassen are in the armed services. The Dewey position is equally well known. He has not done, and will not do, anything inconsistent with his pledge. But if, without his connivance, the convention drafts him, he will take the position that no man is big enough to refuse that kind of call from his party—and accept. Debating the issues with Mr. Wilkie or declaring that he seeks the nomination clearly would be bad faith, and that is exactly the thing of which the New Dealers and the Wilkie forces would like to accuse him.

In other ways, too, Mr. Wilkie has profited by the enforced silence of his rivals. It has enabled him to picture himself as "the indispensable man" of the Republican party; to make predictions that, in effect, say that if he is not nominated Mr. Roosevelt will be elected; to voice threats which are interpreted by his journalistic adherents as meaning he may not support the Republican candidate if he is some one other than himself; to intimate that in national as well as international matters only by nominating him can the Republican party avoid the dreadful brands of being isolationist and reactionary.

OF COURSE, there are answers to all these indictments, insinuations and threats. But there isn't anyone to make the answers. The other potential candidates at whom Mr. Wilkie hits are muzzled. He has the only megaphone. Unquestionably it is a big advantage, not the least phase of which is the favorable publicity which it permits him to garner as he travels round the country making speeches, meeting people, assailing his rivals and speaking highly of himself. In addition, Mr. Wilkie is an earnest, sincere man with an attractive personality, who makes friends quickly and is always accompanied by a large number of competent newspapermen. This does him good in that it enables him to get his stuff regularly in all the big papers and usually on the first page.

IT IS true some of the more unrestrained of his press admirers too obviously overpraise his performance. For example, one of his Wisconsin speeches was recently described as so great that 50 years hence our grandchildren would be reading it in the histories. This recalled that now totally forgotten speech on post-war plans of Mr. Henry Wallace, which one of the professional liberal writers compared favorably to the Gettysburg address. Mr. Wilkie's recent speeches have all been good, but none of them will go down in history. However, that makes no difference. The important question is: Will they sway the Wisconsin voters next Tuesday? If he loses that State he will have sustained almost irreparable damage. If he wins there, he will not be sure of the nomination, but he will have demonstrated the effectiveness of his campaign methods; he will have shown real strength with the people and be in a far better position than he is now. Even though the Dewey attitude would have helped him win, still the winning will enhance his prestige everywhere.

"Ahead of Schedule"

An AAF Report on the Aviation Cadet Program

Thanks to the young men of America, the AAF is seizing air supremacy in every theatre, faster than we ever planned or even dared to hope.

Thanks to youth's eagerness to serve, the AAF has grown in a remarkably short time from a mere handful of men into the largest, most powerful air force in the world.

Thanks to the fitness and alertness of these young men, they have learned their job so quickly that we have been able to throw our great airplane production into effective combat quicker than we believed possible. Due to their daring and skill we are destroying the enemy with less loss to our own forces than we anticipated.

All air crew men must have the irresistible desire to fly. Every such flying man in the AAF is here on his own initiative . . . in response to our invitation to fly and fight with "The Greatest Team in the World." Hundreds of thousands have thronged to our Aviation Cadet Examining Boards in response to this appeal. Thousands are continuing to volunteer . . . for active duty . . . and for the 17-year-old Air Corps Enlisted Reserve.

Our gratitude to the young men of America, and to their parents, friends and associates . . . is without bounds. We should like to welcome on our team any qualified young man who wishes to join. But there are other considerations . . . a balanced attack must be maintained.

Since last July the Selective Service process had not yielded enough men for all phases of the military program. Other branches of the army urgently need men for currently pending operations.

The AAF is ahead of schedule. It has sufficient men in training and in the Air Corps Enlisted Reserve to meet its present schedule for combat crews. It must therefore balance this activity with immediate over-all needs.

As General Marshall has announced, the A

RIEGLSVILLE, Mar. 29.—United in marriage in this borough on March 24, 1894, Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert T. Rasley quietly celebrated their golden wedding anniversary at their home, Ferry street, Easton, on Friday.

Their marriage ceremony was performed by the late Rev. C. L. Fleck, who at that time was pastor of St. Peter's Lutheran Church, here, of which Mr. and Mrs. Rasley have been members for many years.

Mrs. Rasley is a daughter of the late John H. and Elizabeth Gerstberg, who resided here, and the groom of 50 years ago is a son of the late Jacob and Mary VanSyle Hasley, who also lived in this community.

The bride and groom of half a century ago located in Easton in 1907, and for many years Mr. Rasley was the manager of meat departments in several stores. He at present is employed in a chain store in the city.

Mr. and Mrs. Rasley are the parents of two children, Mrs. Palmer C. Klusmeyer, Phillipsburg, N. J., and Ira S. Rasley, Easton.

O Thou Who art Eternal in the Heavens, we come before Thee as mortal men, seeking the blessing which can alone be extended by One Who is eternal and all powerful. Grant unto us the gift of life through Jesus Christ our Lord, that His life may not have been lived in vain, and that His death may not have been accomplished to no avail. Make us ever mindful of our need, and cause us so to live that we might grow in grace and in the knowledge of Christ each day of our lives. In His Name we pray. Amen.
